Spreads may be fixed or variable, depending on market conditions, liquidity, and the specific account type selected by the Client. The Company reserves the right to widen spreads during periods of high market volatility, low liquidity, or outside regular trading hours, without prior notice to the Client.

Trading conditions are subject to change at the sole discretion of the Company and may be updated periodically based on changes in the financial markets, liquidity provisions, or regulatory requirements. Clients are responsible for monitoring the Trading Platform and/or Company communications for any changes to trading conditions.

The Company may, at its discretion, limit the number of open positions held by a client, the volume of individual trades, or the maximum leverage available to certain instruments or accounts, particularly under exceptional market conditions or for risk management purposes.

The Client acknowledges that due to the nature of over the counter (OTC) trading, prices quoted on the Trading Platform may differ from those available on primary exchanges or in other market venues. The Company is under no obligation to offer the most favorable price available in the market.

The Company provides leveraged trading services in Contracts for Difference (CFDs) in accordance with applicable FSCA regulatory requirements and the Company's internal risk management policies.

Leverage allows Clients to control large positions with a relatively small investment. The Client acknowledges and accepts that trading with leverage carries a high level of risk and is not suitable for all investors.

The maximum leverage offered by the Company is determined based on the specific financial instrument, prevailing market conditions, and regulatory restrictions. Details of applicable leverage ratios per instrument are available on the Company's Trading Platform and official website (www.Riverquode.com). The Company reserves the right to amend the maximum leverage limits at its sole discretion without prior notice to the Client, particularly in cases of market volatility, significant economic events, or abnormal trading conditions.

Clients are required to monitor their available margin and maintain sufficient funds in their trading account to support their open positions. Failure to maintain adequate margin may result in the automatic closure of positions (margin call or stop-out) in accordance with the Company's Margin Policy.

The Client acknowledges and agrees that it is their sole responsibility to monitor open positions and account balances. The Company shall not be liable for any losses incurred by the Client resulting from leveraged trading or the failure to maintain sufficient margin.

Once an account is classified as dormant, the Company reserves the right to apply a monthly inactivity fee as specified on the Company's website or in the fee schedule communicated to Clients.

Clients will be notified via email prior to the application of the inactivity fee. If no action is taken by the Client to reactivate the account, the applicable dormant account fee will be deducted monthly from the available balance until either the account is reactivated, or the balance reaches zero.

To reactivate a dormant account, the Client may be required to complete the Company's updated KYC process and confirm their account details. In cases where reactivation involves material changes to the Client's personal or financial circumstances, additional documentation may be required.

In accordance with the applicable laws and regulations of South Africa, including FSCA requirements, client funds that remain unclaimed or inactive for a period of five (5) years may be treated as unclaimed property. In such cases, the Company may be obligated to report and remit such funds to the relevant authority, subject to proper client notification procedures.

Archived accounts are those which have been fully closed and deactivated by the Client or by the Company in accordance with the terms of this Agreement. The Company will retain records of all account activity, including statements, orders, and transactions, for a minimum of five (5) years or longer where required by law.

Clients may request access to archived account information by submitting a written request to the Company's support department. The Company may charge a reasonable administrative fee for the retrieval of archived records.

16: MARGIN REQUIREMENTS AND COLLATERAL

The Company requires Clients to always maintain sufficient margin in their trading accounts to support open positions. Margin is the minimum amount of funds that must be available in the Client's account to open and maintain a position in a Contract for Difference (CFD).

Margin requirements vary depending on the financial instrument being traded, market conditions, and the leverage selected by the Client. The applicable margin levels and requirements are displayed on the Trading Platform and are subject to change at the Company's sole discretion, particularly in response to volatile market conditions or significant economic events.

The Company reserves the right to increase margin requirements for new or existing positions at any time without prior notice, especially in times of high market volatility or low liquidity.

Failure by the Client to maintain the required margin level may result in the Company initiating a margin call. In the event of a margin call, the Client will be required to either deposit additional funds or close positions to maintain compliance with the margin requirements.

If the Client fails to meet the margin call, the Company reserves the right to close part or all of the Client's open positions without prior notice in order to protect the Client from incurring further losses and to safeguard the Company's interests.
